

Anton Baessler Takes Stand To Testify In His Own Defense

Second Defendant Charged Together With Michael Conner in Alleged Murder of Uriah Quick, Takes Stand To Tell His Version of Events Leading up to January 22—He Was Married at 20 and Mention of His Wife Causes Tears to Flow.

Anton Baessler, charged along with Michael Conner with the crime of murder, first degree, for the killing of Uriah Quick took the stand in county court and for the balance of the morning session was questioned as to his early life and to facts leading up to January 22.

Baessler said he had been born in Harlem, was 43 years old, married and had no children. He said he had lived in Harlem until he was about 19 years old when he went to live with a sister and helped his brother-in-law on a pig farm. He remained with his sister for three years and was employed collecting swill for pig feed. He went to school off and on during that time. When he was 13 years old he entered the dairy business and worked 12 or 13 years at that business as a delivery route man. He worked for Witt & Skinner, Luke Blake and Beake's Dairy Company until he was around 20 years old when he went into the delicatessen business in New York. He was married when he was 20. When asked as to when he was married he became noticeably affected and began to cry.

Was in Milk Business. He said he had been in the milk business for some time and just before he quit it he became involved with the health authorities over some bacteria test. That was while he was working for Beake's Dairy that happened. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and served that time and then went back to work for the company in another route.

About 1914 or 1915 he bought the Rufus Palen farm on the Hillside road in this county paying $4,000. He still owns it. For about 10 years he farmed and re-entered the pig business raising pigs. He also got out wood and his wife took boarders in the summer.

About 1925 or 1926 he left the farm and moved to Kerhonkson. He continued to work the farm and get out wood and on January 22 when the murder happened he said he had some 48 cords of wood on the farm and was employing six woodchoppers. When he moved to Kerhonkson he went to the Dr. Fuller house and entered the store business in the Max Poppel building. Later he bought out Wilson Van Ethen's restaurant and put in a delicatessen business. Two years later he moved to his present quarters across the tracks. This property he bought at a sale and paid $3,500 for it. This money he had saved from his work on the farm. He also owns two small properties at Port Ben and later bought the property which he uses for a garage and living quarters upstairs. This was formerly a blacksmith shop.

The place where his restaurant is now is a three family apartment with a store on the first floor and a wing off to one side which he used as living quarters for himself.

Said He Sold Liquor. He said he sold liquor and made home brew for sale and twice had been raided by federal agents. The first time he was knocked off the first to New York and paid a $5 fine and the second time he went to New York the case was dismissed.

His first acquaintance with Mike Conner he said was when Conner came to his store and said he used to work for Pres. Davis. Conner had since worked off and on for him. Conner was a handy man and used to come and go as he pleased. No regular salary was ever paid him.

Baessler said he first met Mrs. Fish about a year ago when she was brought to his place by Quick. He had known Quick then about six months. Mamie he said had been introduced as Quick's housekeeper. After that she came with Quick and also alone to the restaurant. Quick and Mamie had asked him and his wife to their home too.

There never had been any trouble between Quick and Baessler and he never had any arguments. They visited back and forth.

After he met Mrs. Fish she used to come to the restaurant at Mrs. Baessler's invitation and help out, but she was never paid any regular wage.

On January 6, Baessler said he had brought his wife to the hospital for treatment for blood poisoning, which she had contracted following a burn. Ed Rose, Baessler and Mary Fish brought her to the hospital.

From January 6 to January 22, the day of his arrest, he visited her daily at the hospital and for a week he went twice a day when her condition was bad.

Quick's Complaints. On January 15 he said he and Mike started to Kingston and went up to Quick's and got Mamie. At that time Quick said she was going to see him and he would get someone else if she continued to go but she didn't come along. Baessler said he

State Milk Board Guarantees 4 Cents Price To Dairymen

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP).—With its newest and most far reaching order in effect, guaranteeing the farmer a 4-cent minimum price for fluid milk, the state milk control board today took up the task of enforcing the order and seeing that the milk producer gets the benefit of the increased price which consumers are required to pay.

The order establishing mandatory prices to the farmers became effective at 1 a. m. (E. S. T.) today, only one day after the rates to consumers in New York city were raised 1 cent a quart.

Farmers all over the state are now assured that they will get at least 4 cents a quart for milk containing 3.5 per cent butterfat and sold for drinking purposes, except in cases where it is sold on the New York market from a point more than 200 miles away. The farmer then must pay the freight from his farm to the border of the 200 mile zone.

Members of the milk board said they did not believe police aid will be necessary for the enforcement of the minimum price order. Regular dairy inspectors, together with the public, will be relied upon to detect violations, it was indicated.

Japanese Report Chinese in Retreat

(By The Associated Press.) The Chinese were reported in Japanese dispatches today to be in disorderly retreat from the North China battlefields in preparation for a stand along a defense line only thirteen miles east of Peking.

At Tientsin, however, political changes resulted in predictions that a compromise might be effected to bring about cessation of hostilities in the area south of the great wall.

Arrival in the north of General Hwang Fu, representative of the National Government at Nanking, in conjunction with a statement Monday of Field Marshal Nobuyoshi Muto, Japanese military head in Manchuria, is interpreted as evidence of the compromise.

The Japanese will withdraw, Marshall Muto said, as soon as Chinese troops leave the great wall.

State Beer Board To Announce Its Rules

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP).—The state beer control board will announce next week its decision on whether beer may be sold to patrons standing up at bars. Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the board, said today.

Mr. Mulrooney made his announcement in connection with the issuance of the first of 50,000 license application forms which were sent out this morning to hotels, restaurants, beer gardens, clubs, grocery stores and drug stores desiring to sell beer. In making out these applications each proprietor is required to say whether there is a bar on his premises.

"We are not quite ready to issue final lists of regulations," Mr. Mulrooney said. "They are being mimeographed in tentative form today. We expect to have them ready in a week."

Judge Staley Shows He Means Business in Supreme Court Cases

With the court room still being occupied by the proceedings in the Quick murder trial Justice Ellis J. Staley opened the May term of Supreme Court in the supervisors' room at the court house at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Parts of the desks have been removed to make room and folding chairs installed, but there wasn't any too much room at that. It was a case of standing room only at the opening of the court, until after the calling of the calendar, when lawyers not having immediate business before the court left and the excusing of some ten or a dozen of the panel of jurors still further relieved the congestion.

Judge Staley showed that he means business in removing from the calendar cases that have been on it for a long time, or where there is no apparent attempt to secure action. Out of a list of 133 cases called 40 or more cases were either reported settled or ordered stricken from the calendar by Judge Staley. A few cases were given some leeway where good reasons were advanced but most of the remainder of the list were marked down either to be tried at this term of court if possible, otherwise to be struck off.

Case No. 22, William W. Van Keuren against Joseph Suski, an ejectment action, was referred to Judge Hasbrouck as referee, the plaintiff consenting.

Several cases in which Morris Kanfer is interested were put over to the October term of court, it being stated that Mr. Kanfer was engaged with his duties as an U. S. assistant district attorney.

Judge Staley stated that this term of court will continue for two weeks in May, this week and next, will suspend during the week of May 29 on account of the Memorial Day holiday and resume on June 5 for that week and the next, concluding on June 16.

The day calendar as made up for Monday consisted of cases Nos. 327, 448, 209, 6, 21a, 22a, 22 1/2a, 21, 27.

The first case taken up Monday before Judge Staley and a jury was the action brought by Lawrence Y. Wardell against Harrison W. Decker, an automobile negligence action. A. J. Cooke appeared for Ireland & Hendrickson, attorneys of record for the plaintiff, Decker, being represented by John C. Welsh.

The case grows out of an accident which took place on the Newburgh-New Windsor road on the night of March 28, 1932. The case was continued this morning.

TWO CASES IN POLICE COURT BEFORE JUDGE CULLOTON.

George Schildknecht of Ridgewood, N. J., arrested on a charge of parking his car on the crosswalk at John and Crown streets on Monday, was fined $5 in police court today by Judge Culloton.

Idore Miller of Ellenville, arrested on a warrant sworn out by Joseph Zucca, of Zucca Body Works, charging Miller with grand larceny in the second degree, was held open until later. The arrest grew out of a check transaction.

ESTIMATE BEER BOARD'S COSTS AT $7,085 IN ORANGE

Operating costs of the Orange county beer control board during the 13 months until June 30, 1934, will aggregate $7,985, according to estimates of Charles Evans of Arden and Frank Patterson of Sparrowbush, the newly appointed commissioners of that county. A budget totalling that amount has been forwarded to Albany for approval of the state beer control organization. The entire cost of the county board's administration will be borne by the state.

25 LOCAL MEN BUILDING AN ADDITION TO BAKERY

Another sign of an employer's trust in renewed business activity is the announcement of Schwenk's Bakery, that 25 local men are being employed to build a large one story steel and brick addition to the present plant. The contract for the masonry was awarded to William McCullough, the carpentry work to Frank Southard, and the building was designed by Augustus H. Schrowanz, local architect.

In addition to enlarging the plant, extensive alterations and remodeling are planned for the present building. The new portion will measure 50 by 50 feet, and will be entirely fire-proof. Part of the addition will be used to store flour, and the remainder will be devoted to the wrapping and slicing departments, where the bread is prepared for the consumer.

The new addition will make Schwenk's Bakery one of the most modern plants in the city, and is the result of the growth in business in the plant during the last few years.

Davis-Boncour Talk Calms French Anxiety Over Nazi Arms Plan

American Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis With Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour Has Allayed Anxiety of French Over German Re-armament.

Paris, May 16 (AP).—The 50-minute talk yesterday of Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, with Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour has allayed French anxiety over German re-armament.

Preparation of a common front by the United States, Great Britain and France against German re-arming was under way as a result of the conference whose subject was the Reich's stand on arms, expected to be outlined tomorrow in a speech before the Reichstag by Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

The whole German question was up for consideration by the cabinet today. Davis meanwhile will talk with Premier Edouard Daladier, and then go to Geneva to pick up where he left off while negotiating the tariff trade proposal in London.

Davis is expected to make a statement outlining the United States position after arrival there.

Fight In Congress On Sales Tax Opens

Washington, May 16 (AP).—A stormy fight in Congress over new taxes to finance the government's $3,300,000,000 public building program was indicated today.

Powerful opposition already massed against proposals for a general sales tax tied to the belief that such a levy would meet with almost certain defeat.

However, the problem is one for Congress to settle. President Roosevelt will send up his message on public works-industrial control tomorrow. He will suggest several methods of taxation, but he will not recommend any particular one.

After a White House conference yesterday, one Democratic leader said: "The House will not pass a sales tax and from the attitude taken by leaders of the ways and means committee, there is little likelihood that the committee will recommend such a levy." The House decisively rejected the sales tax two years ago.

New Auburn, Maine, A Smouldering Ruin

Auburn, Me., May 15 (AP).—New Auburn, suburban section of this city, is a smouldering ruin, devastated by fire which in less than five hours consumed more than 200 buildings and made 1,500 persons homeless.

It was Maine's second conflagration in a little more than a week. A large part of the city of Ellsworth was destroyed May 7 by a $2,000,000 fire of incendiary origin.

Officials scouted reports that Auburn's blaze was caused by a pyromaniac. City Manager Frederick W. Ford said he believed an oil or gasoline blast in the garage where the fire originated was responsible. The fire was spread by a northeast wind of 39 to 40 mile velocity.

Mr. Gregory was assisting in moving some flag stones in the yard in the rear of the store when one of the heavy flagstones fell against his leg.

LAURA MILLER, ARRESTED HERE, GOES TO BEDFORD

Laura Miller, the young woman on parole from Bedford Reformatory, who was arrested here on Sunday following her theft of an automobile owned by Joseph M. Robinson of Saugerties, has been returned to that institution. The young woman had been visiting relatives in Saugerties for the past few months.

Washington, May 16 (AP).—President Roosevelt appealed directly to the rulers of the nations today to reduce armaments, eliminate entirely the weapons of aggression, refrain from sending any armed force whatsoever beyond their own borders, forget "petty" national aims, and join sincerely to assure peace and economic recovery.

In a plain-speaking message, without diplomatic precedent, the President asked for specific steps at once, and declared if any nation interposed obstructions, the civilized world would "know where the responsibility for failure lies."

He mentioned no nation by name, but his words rang through the diplomatic world with dramatic significance at a moment when certain leaders in Germany are asking for greater armament; when Japanese troops are marching deeper into the territory of China; and when other peoples are suspected of harboring aspirations to acquire new territory by force.

For the United States, the plain words of the declaration point to abstention from further incursions by American marines into any Latin-American country. They hint at a status quo with respect to the American forces now stationed, by treaty, in portions of China.

Asks Success for Arms Conference

As an immediate goal, the President asked success for the Geneva Arms Conference and the Economic Conference soon to meet in London. He proposed:

Adoption at Geneva of the MacDonald plan to reduce the armaments of France, stabilize those of Germany, and set up a consultative pact to promote peace.

Agreement upon the time and place of a later conference to carry these steps still further.

An agreement meantime that no nation shall increase its existing armaments.

And a promise by all nations, provided the terms of arms limitation are faithfully kept, "that they will send no armed force of whatsoever nature across their frontiers."

"Common sense refuses to join with genuine sincerity in these concerted efforts for political and economic peace, the one at Geneva and the other at London, progress can be obstructed and ultimately blocked," said Mr. Roosevelt.

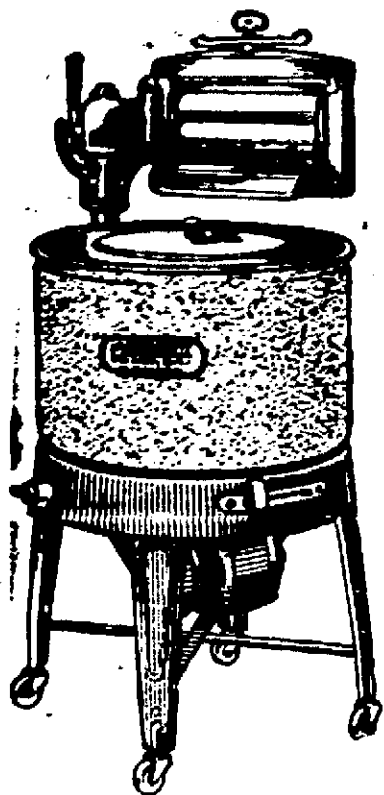

"In such event the civilized world, seeking both forms of peace, will know where the responsibility for failure lies."

"I urge that no nation assume such a responsibility and that all the nations joined in their great conferences translate their professed policies into action. 'This is the way to political and economic peace.'"

Addressed Directly to Rulers

The message, contrary to longstanding diplomatic practice, was addressed directly to the kings, potentates, and presidents of all of the 54 nations to be represented

By TOM WHELAN.

Berlin, May 16. (AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler today called Count Rüdiger von Döberitz to get the latest information from Geneva preparatory to facing the Reichstag and the world with a declaration of Germany's international political intentions.

The chancellor at 3 p. m. tomorrow will outline before the reassembled Reichstag Germany's position in the face of the deadlock in the World Disarmament Conference which followed German disagreement with articles of the British disarmament plan.

The count, chief delegate at the conference, and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief of the foreign division of the Nazi party, were recalled to Berlin over the week-end for conferences. The latter had been in London.

The situation in Germany was most tense as government leaders sought to check the drift which rapidly was carrying the country into political isolation.

Newspapers generally blamed France for the Geneva impasse and expressed surprise that the speech last Saturday night of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, in which he compared the present situation with that existing in 1914, had received a cool foreign reception.

NEW PALTS

New Palts, May 16.—The Fifth grade boys of the practice school are playing baseball. The captains are Robert Decker and Nicholas Badami.
George C. Easman, a reader in the Christian Science Church in Newburgh, and Mrs. Easman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wells and family on Prospect street the past week.
Mrs. Ida Stephens of Church street is entertaining her son from Alabama.

The opening service of the Methodist Sunday School was in charge of "The Busy Bees" and "Live Wire" classes. Miss Blanche Guinac directed the program.

Mother's Day was observed at the morning church service with the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock in charge. At the close of the service he requested all mothers present to stand while he sang "I'll Wear a White Flower For You, Mother Dear," while two young ladies presented to each mother a white carnation. It was a very impressive service. Benediction and organ chimes of "Nearer My God To Thee" and the postlude concluded the well attended service. Miss Ethel Addis of Poughkeepsie was a Sunday guest of Mrs. Ida Stephens, on Church street.

Automobile Engineers have unanimously agreed that the cooling systems of all automobiles should be thoroughly flushed and cleaned at least twice a year, to remove the sludge, rust, grease, etc., that clogs and insulates the entire cooling system, which is primarily the cause of over-heating and other motor troubles.

To take care of this type of work we are now using a special chemical compound which is guaranteed to remove any accumulations that may be in the radiator or engine block.

Why not let us service your car now to assure you an efficient cooling system.

Old-Fashioned Tea Rooms

The old-fashioned tea rooms were popular in the days of our grandmothers, but have now largely disappeared from northern gardens. The real tea room was of Chinese origin improved in France. The name was derived from the odor of the leaves which resembled that of tea. In the middle of the last century, many of these roses were imported from France, but they proved too tender for our northeastern states. Many varieties are still grown in the South, where they are treasured for their beauty and fragrance.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 16, 1933

DIRECT FEDERAL RELIEF.

The $500,000,000 Wagner-Lewis relief bill, for the first time in the nation's history, authorizes outright gifts from the federal government to all the states for direct relief purposes. It creates a federal relief administration to distribute the fund in the states. Between now and October 1 half the total may be distributed on the basis of one federal dollar for three expended in states, counties and municipalities for local relief. After that the other $250,000,000 may be distributed as direct gifts to the states.

The principle of this measure has been advocated for some time by Senator Wagner and others. A year ago it lacked both administration and public support. But experience and changing conditions alter opinions. It is now rather generally recognized that there might be far worse things than relief gifts to the states from the national government. Failure to meet relief needs would be worse. Incidence that communities—states or smaller units—already breaking under financial strain, take on further indebtedness in order to take care of their destitute, probably would be worse.

It should be reassuring to alarmed citizens who regard this as a "dole" and a "dole" as the beginning of character demoralization to learn that such has not been the outcome in England. Recent careful investigation has brought out the fact that English workmen are eager to get jobs; that they gladly take on hard work with long hours for only a few shillings a week more than unemployment insurance would give them.

DEPRESSION GRADUATES

High school graduation days are here. From now until mid-June there will be commencements all over the United States—except in those unhappy places where schools have already been closed for lack of funds. It is a little tougher world than usual that these youngsters face. They know a good deal about it already. They are applying stern economy to their graduation clothes and their class parties. Many of them who planned to go to college are not sure of getting there next year. Many who want jobs are certain not to get them.

Usually it is the thing to joke about high school graduates, to smile patronizingly at their optimism and their desire to go forth to conquer the world. Usually, too, we lecture them a good bit about their duties and responsibilities. This year, perhaps, it may be a good idea to lecture the parents. The present crop of graduates needs sympathy, great understanding, patience and encouragement. If they can't go to college and can't find remunerative jobs, help them to keep busy with useful, constructive work at home. Let them assume regular household tasks, help make the garden, keep the yard attractive. Encourage them to take up some inexpensive hobby—there are plenty such—and to continue studying by means of library reading courses. If nothing else is available. Parents and grandparents have been through depressions before. This one, which happens to be a record-breaker, is a first experience for the kids. Help them see it through.

COLLECTING TAXES

Nobody, in all this welter of reconstructive action, seems to have got around yet to one of the basic needs of the moment—the refinancing of delinquent taxes on terms which would make them available for immediate use. States, cities, towns, counties, townships and school districts are broke—bust busted from failure to collect taxes. The taxpayers don't pay because they can't. Their savings are in check books, or used up. Millions are out of work. Business conditions are improving, but the effects will register slowly in tax collections. Meanwhile public employees are not paid. Schools close and teachers are in distress. Money is lacking for public services and direct relief.

Most of the back taxes will be paid eventually. The problem is, while granting needed moratoriums and easier terms, to get the money for present public needs. Would it not be possible to realize on the delinquent taxes by issuing public bonds against them, secured by the delinquent properties? The state, county or city could then use the cash, give the delinquent taxpayers credit and amortize the payments over a reasonable term of years. This ought to be a "self-liquidating" project within the province of the R.F.C., if other means failed.

MORE SCHOOL HOLIDAYS.

"There should be no work at school on certain afternoons during the week; there should be more holidays; there should be no home work over the week-end; there should be less home work each night; there should be fewer subjects studied; there should be fewer hours spent in school."

When you read the above you'll likely get the idea that the school children had gathered together and put forward these ideas for their teachers and parents.

As a matter of fact these are the suggestions from the children's specialists to the school authorities in Berlin.

These physicians state that there are three factors that constantly cause complaint: Home work, long hours at school, and activities outside the school, but perhaps under the direction or supervision of the school.

Owing to these factors a youngster may become so tired that parents and teachers consider him lazy. A youngster may have some disturbance of health that is not recognized by parents or teachers—enlarged tonsils, eye or ear defects, and other conditions which might easily be corrected if recognized.

Loss of interest in studies and frequent headaches may appear, yet the youngster tries to work hard to keep up with the class. If the youngster is growing from boyhood to manhood (14 to 16) the unfavorable effects are increased.

Then, too, there are youngsters who are not quite as bright as the rest of the class, and they become quickly exhausted in their vain efforts to keep up with the others.

Thus you can see the reasons for the above recommendations, for despite the many reforms in the public schools, the matter of fatigue—tiredness—caused by hard study and long hours, has not been sufficiently investigated.

Special attention should be given to the beginners' classes to see that the youngsters are not overburdened.

School work must not begin so early that time for sleep is shortened, and, if there is an afternoon session, there should be a sufficient rest period before it begins.

It is taken for granted of course that parents will do their share in seeing that the youngster gets a full night's sleep, and is in bed early every night, except perhaps Friday and Saturday.

The White Cockatoo

by Mignon G. Eberhart

Francis Tally's signature.
 There were three names on it: my own, David Lorn, and Francis Tally's. It was exactly the same as it had been when I looked at it last, which was on the occasion of David Lorn's arrival—exactly the same except, of course, for the addition of Francis Tally's name.

Chapter 38
 THE VANISHED BLOT
 "Well," it was Madame Grete entering from the lounge. Her green gown caught highlights in its curves, and the white cockatoo cinged to her shoulder, looking inquisitively from one to the other of us.

"Well," she said again. "Will the police now permit you to leave?" She heard of their refusal with a face that did not alter a shade in its surely amiable lines. Watching her, it was difficult to believe—as I certainly had believed, watching her husband's reception of the news—that that refusal affected any plan they might have made.

Either it had not, or she was a better actor than her husband. Perhaps the look of secret reflection in her catlike eyes deepened, but her face remained smooth and friendly.

With only dark lines under her eyes and a certain pinched look about her nostrils showing the strain of the last few days, Grete was always friendly; usually amiable.
 When Lorn, who had explained dryly and briefly, finished, her soft shoulders rippled slightly under the silk. She lifted one squarish but very white hand to caress the cockatoo's neck and said:

"Ah—well—the detectives from Paris will do something. The police here—" She left her sentence unfinished meaningly. "We may have you here for several days more, then. Heaven send they be better days."

She said it quite honestly—at least, that was the effect. I heartily agreed with her.

At the same time I'd have thought more of it as a wish if I had been entirely sure it was Heaven and not Madame Grete herself with whom the responsibility lay. I reminded myself that I hadn't, actually, a shadow of a clue against her, and moved nearer the register which lay open on the tall desk at my side.

Grete had turned to Sue and was talking of her leaving them in a very frank and pleasant manner—a manner which nevertheless contrived to emphasize Sue's long yearning with them and, somehow, the friendliness of the Lovschien toward Sue and her mother—while Francis and Lorn, equally non-committal in expression, waited and perforce listened.

As she talked I was looking with interest at Francis Tally's name scrawled across the open page, and trying to recall the interview initials below his typed signature in the letter Lorn had brought. It was true that he had recognized Lorn; true, which was more important, that Lorn had recognized him.

Still, as Lorn himself had said, it is well to prove things before raising a case on them. I could not recall the exact characteristics of those intricate initials with enough accuracy to compare them with the signature. I must ask Sue to permit me to look at the letter again.

But there was something about that page that was wrong. Some-
 ing. Under cover of the conversation I leaned nearer the book, and, luckily, caught a highlight from the window near by on the glimmering surface of the paper.

Then I was sure. My signature was still in my own handwriting; that was true. But it had been traced on that page with a sharp instrument and then followed with pen and ink.

And it was not too well done; with police it wouldn't have stood a test on moment. Even I, a police man and, God knows, no amateur detective, could readily discern the forgery.

But the forgery began and ended with my own name. Lorn's and Tally's signatures were clearly not traced.

Why, then?
 The explanation was simple and swift. Something had made the removal of that page imperative. It had become imperative after my arrival and before Lorn's. And it was nothing of an innocent nature, such as a bad tear or more spilled ink for Lovschien, in such a case, would have merely asked me to register again, and explained the need for it.

No, the very fact of careful and painstaking forgery of my name proved that there was a hidden and probably incriminating reason for it—incriminating to whom, I could not know, although it pointed strongly to Lovschien, and was thus practically the only material clue I had so far discovered which led to him.

Suddenly I realized that I was looking too long and too closely at the page. There were still voices behind me, but I looked up quickly and met Lovschien's eyes. I endeavored to look blank and unconcerned. I even said in a casual way to Tally, "Your home's in the South, then?" as if it'd been only a matter of idle curiosity.

There was no way to know, however, whether my small ruse succeeded with Lovschien or not. His eyes still followed me when I left the lobby, and as I started upstairs I glanced back from the landing and saw him bending over the register.

MARIUS BIANNE DETERMINES THE ALCOHOLIC CONTENT OF WINE BY TASTE ALONE... Guasti, Cal.

Blue eyes are not blue in pigmentation, they are blue for the same reason the sky is blue—white light diffused and reflected has the appearance of blue because short light rays (i. e. blue) scatter more readily than longer waves. Persons who have brown eyes, for example, have a brownish pigment protecting the retina. This is lacking in cases where the eyes are blue.

Without swallowing a drop, Marius Bianne of Guasti, Calif., can tell with uncanny accuracy the alcoholic content of a wine. He is an expert wine taster in Guasti, where one of the largest vineyards in the world is located. Bianne takes a small amount of wine in his mouth and from its taste alone, can tell the vintage, variety and alcoholic content of the sample. So that the taste will not be altered in the slightest, Bianne tastes his wine from a silver cup.

Old newspapers were put to a strange use by Mr. Stenman who decided to build a cottage in Pigeon Cove, Mass. He used newspaper lumber. Rolled tightly, glued and waterproofed, paper makes a unique though serviceable building material. The house is furnished with furniture made from old newspapers, one of the most interesting pieces being a desk made from newspapers which are accounts of Colonel L. B. Bergh's famous flight.

WASHINGTON—If a vote were taken as to which state's representatives in the senate looked more like the senators of popular and traditional conception, Illinois would have a good chance to win.

There's perhaps no other pair in that whole body of 96 different personalities that come nearer to looking the part of the roles they play than James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich.

The senatorial splendor of Senator Lewis is one of the most talked of things when the senate as a whole is under discussion. Standing out on the floor because of his whiskers and his meticulous dress, quite often he is the first senator to be singled out by visitors to the gallery and "located" by means of the charts handed them as they enter.

His grand manner, flowery speech and deep resonant voice make a deep impression on the gallery and visitors usually remember him once they have seen him and heard him.

A Modern Roman
 Illinois' junior senator is a personality entirely different from Lewis. He can over from the house at the beginning of the present session of congress and hasn't had time as yet to become so well known.

But he looks the part of a senator. Someone recently described him as follows: "It is a toga were draped around his ample form and a band tied around the benign head of Bill Dieterich, he would be the counterpart of a Roman senator."

Not since the days when the late Senator Overman of North Carolina—be of the silver-haired, flowing cape with a scarlet lining, and broad-brimmed black hat—has there been a senator "on the hill" whom observers have likened to the old Romans.

While younger, Dieterich looks very much like Senator Overman. He has the same silvery hair. The substantial build and kindly, yet firm, expression are very similar.

Silence His Rule
 Dieterich prefers to let the others do the talking on the floor. Even outside, he is cautious in what he says and is partial to the role of listener.

During the entire time he sat in the house as a member of the seventy-second congress he made only two speeches, and they were short and confined to one page.

There's only one subject that he will dwell on at any length and that is historical research. He knows history and delights in taking long, motor tours to points of historical interest.

A friend who accompanied him on a recent trip to the home of George Washington at Mount Vernon reported that there wasn't a brick or blade of grass there that he didn't know something about.

Copernicus' Theory
Copernicus, the Polish astronomer, was born in 1473 and died in 1543. It was Copernicus who reversed the universal belief that the earth had no motion. Through observations that took a lifetime, he reached the conclusion that the earth rotates upon its axis and with the other planets revolves around the sun.

What legally is considered a preferred deposit in a bank is a deposit which is agreed shall be held specially in trust, where there is such agreement that the relation of debtor and creditor is not created, but the one holding the deposit is a trustee. The matter is sufficiently intricate that judges are reversed and at times some judges dissent to the holding in particular cases, so there is no rule by which one can accurately sort the claims of depositors as a deposit creating a debt or a preferred deposit.

"I found out the secret of keeping my skin young looking," says Mrs. J. I. Potter, of Montclair, New Jersey

"I found out the secret of keeping my skin young looking—simply by using the same care for my skin that the Hollywood stars use . . . Lux Toilet Soap. I've been using this nice soap for a long time. From the very beginning my skin took on a new freshness and became wonderfully improved."

WONDERFULLY soft, smooth skin—this charm is every woman's birthright! For nature has given to skin of every type—to your skin, too—precious elements that keep it young, softly smooth.

Then why does skin grow dull and drab—old before its time? You've probably often wondered. And now scientists explain . . .

The Secret of Youthful Skin

Skin, science has found, contains certain precious elements. These elements, found in youthful skin of every type, keep it fresh, smooth, attractive, young . . . help guard it when exposed to wind, dust and sun.

The gradual loss of these elements is what makes skin get old looking, dry, rough, unattractive. But scientists give this welcome and all-important message—you can now check the loss of these precious elements.

This Soap actually contains Precious Elements found in skin itself

Now scientists attest the fact that Lux Toilet Soap, with its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility and its content of precious elements is an unquestionable aid in keeping the skin young looking . . . softly smooth.

Small wonder that Lux Toilet Soap is used by the screen stars, and has been for years. 686 of the 694 important Hollywood actresses are enthusiastic in their praise. And women everywhere have been proving for themselves that this fine soap actually keeps skin fresher—younger—more attractive.

The lovely screen stars must have radiant, youthful skin. Small wonder that this fragrant, white soap has been made the official soap in all the large film studios.

A Younger Looking YOU

SCIENCE tells you that pure, safe Lux Toilet Soap actually contains precious elements all skin must have to look youthful. These elements are found in the skin itself—an abundance is fresh, youthful skin, less in skin that is growing old, unlovely.

HOLLYWOOD has proved through years of daily use this soap actually keeps every type of skin younger looking. MILLIONS of women (and men) everywhere confirm Hollywood's experience.

Here's efficiency for you. No buttons, no troublesome snaps for the woman who owns one of these nifty stylo-frocks as they are called. The model shown is in a brown and white cotton print with white plique finishing, for most everything from house dresses to evening frocks is trimmed in plique or organdie nowadays. You slip your arms through the little puffed sleeves, wrap the left side across the back, then wrap the right side over and tie the ends in a bow in front. The silhouette and tailoring are as smart as in your favorite afternoon gown. It's the sort of dress that makes working at home a joy.

World's Smallest Coin Busy
What is believed to be the smallest coin in the world has been found in the state of Travancor, India. And it is very busy, for it can buy two country-made cigarettes, a teaspoonful of salt or one needle. It is one-quarter of an inch in diameter and its value is one-fiftieth of a cent. It is known locally as "kash" and bears on one side the imprint of the sun, with a conch in the center. On the reverse is the conch, supported by an elephant on each side, as the state's coat of arms.

Baked Beans
1 quart beans
1/2 pound salt pork
Boiling water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1/2 cup molasses
Soak the beans in cold water over night. Drain, cover with fresh water, and cook until soft. Drain and place in an earthen bean-pot. Bury the meat in the beans. Mix salt, mustard and molasses, and add 1/4 cup boiling water. Pour over the beans and add enough boiling water to cover. Cover, and bake in a slow oven, 250 degrees F. 8 hours.

Farm Relief Act Seeks Higher Prices By Paying Growers To Cut Surplus

By FRANK I. WELLES
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington (AP)—To the farmer considering the farm relief act its most important word is "parity," and there is perhaps no phrase more vital than "fair exchange value."

Disparity has existed between farm and non-farming purchasing power since 1929 and to a marked degree since 1932. That fact was reiterated in the successful fight to get the bill through Congress and to President Roosevelt for his approval.

Meanwhile the average farm mortgage debt per acre has gone virtually to 230 per cent of pre-war, taxes per acre to 200 per cent and the average per acre returns from 10 leading crops to less than 50 per cent of pre-war.

However, getting a pre-war price for farm products does not necessarily restore pre-war relationship between the farm price level and the price level of other things.

An Example in Hogs
The pre-war price of hogs was $1.50, but non-farm commodities have advanced since that period and to establish parity hogs would have to sell, currently, at well above $10 per hundredweight whereas the present top of the market lately has been around $4.

"If we are to approach a parity price for agricultural products," Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture says, "we are up against the proposition of getting our production down on a par with effective consumption."

The farm relief act empowers the secretary, at his discretion, to rent land farmers take out of production or to make benefit payments to him for abandoning any part of a crop of which a surplus threatens.

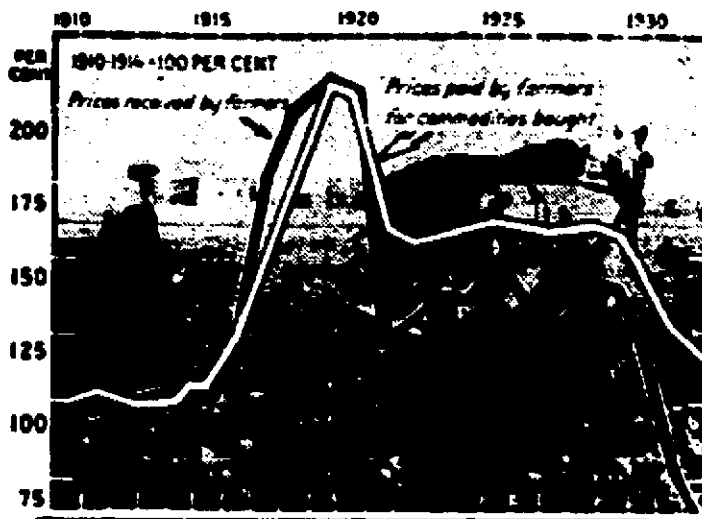

Farmer's Cooperation Voluntary
It is entirely voluntary on the part of the farmer. If he cooperates he gets the estimated difference between the market price and the determined parity price as a rental in addition to what he gets from the sale of his "adjusted" crop.

At the outset the secretary is permitted to draw on an appropriation of $100,000,000 from the federal treasury to make rental and benefit payments. Withdrawals will be repaid and further payments to farmers financed from a fund created by a processor's tax on the commodity.

Cotton Plan Mandatory
Only the cotton option plan is mandatory on the secretary. At the request of the producer he is required to give an option at current market prices on any amount of government-owned cotton which corresponds to the producer's reduction of his 1933 crop.

The producer is to receive whatever profits accrue from a rise in price at the time of sale, but is not required to pay the full option price in event values sink.

The act provides for a compensating tax on substitute products if consumer demand shifts perceptibly from a basic commodity bearing a processor's tax.

Other relief to the farmer includes refinancing of farm mortgages at 4 1/2 per cent interest through the land bank system, and Reconstruction Finance corporation loans to the farmer to enable him to refinance certain other obligations.

ST. MARY'S SCOUTS PLAN TO HOLD SHOW THIS MONTH

Rehearsals for the annual show put on by St. Mary's troop of Boy Scouts, which this year will be in the form of a Mardi Gras, are being held several nights a week in the school hall where the production will be staged on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, May 25 and 26, and indications are that the Scout show will surpass any dramatic event ever held in the hall.

On Sunday afternoon, May 21, there will be a full dress rehearsal. The children of St. Mary's parochial school, their friends, and adults who cannot attend the evening performances will be admitted. This show will start at 2:30. The evening performances will be at 8 o'clock, with dancing after.

The decoration scheme for the Mardi Gras, when completed, will be one of the most novel ever seen in St. Mary's Hall, which is being transformed into a regular carnival setting by Zeke Ross with his paint brush and crepe paper artistry.

Canon Law Specialist Picked By Pope As Apostolic Delegate In Washington

Shokan, May 15.—Herbert Bell, well known Kingston harnessmaker, was a caller in the village Friday morning. Mr. Bell is a native of the town of Olive and for many years conducted a harness business here.

Pupils of the Shokan school having perfect attendance records for the month of April are as follows: Otto Grossman, Herbert Wells, Evelyn Gollman, Mary Elliott, Josephine Leyder, Annette Robeson, Lois Robeson and Ethel Salantano. In the school tests the following children earned an average above 90 per cent: Gretchen Wells, Josephine Leyder, Anna Leyder, Ethel Salantano, Annette Robeson, Alva Wiggell, Lois Robeson and Otto Grossman.

C. J. Babbitt of New York city is sojourning at John T. Moore's place in the west end of the village.

Louis Lifschitz, former Ashokan general storekeeper, who now resides in Mt. Tremper, was a caller here on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gearon of New York city have arrived at their summer home adjoining the Reformed Church grounds.

A fishing party consisting of four local young women enjoyed an outing and picnic at the Sand Hill cove of the west basin on Friday. The total catch of fish for the day was one yellow perch. The ladies report that the fish were biting but for some reason or other failed to attach themselves to the hook.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Town of M. E. Church, held on May 14, 1933, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Granville Davis, president; Mrs. Jacob V. Merrihue, vice-president; Miss Florence Davis, secretary, and Mrs. Andrew Davis, treasurer.

George Sweet of Phoenixia was a business caller in Shokan Friday morning.

A measles epidemic finally has struck Shokan and nine of the school children are confined to their homes with the disease. Dr. Bibby, town health officer, has advised Mrs. Lena Burgher, teacher of the local school, to excuse all pupils having trouble with their eyes, nose or throat.

Henry Wells and family on Friday removed from the Every place in the west end to the Elgion house in Ashokan. The Wells family came here from Kingston last spring.

Mose Pimley of Kingston is staying at the William Shults home, where he is engaged in making the family garden and doing other necessary work around the farm.

Gretchen Wells will represent the Shokan school in the spelling contest to be held in the west side schoolhouse on Thursday, June 1. Mrs. Lena Burgher, teacher of the local school, will attend the teachers' conference at the same time and place.

Mrs. Edmund Gearon's beautiful hedge of Japanese quince and syringa bushes, now in bloom on the lawn of the Gearon place, draw many admiring comments from passersby along the state road.

The Stolen Pig

By JARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Now," said Willy Nilly, "I have to finish fixing up the repair shop. It still shows that we had a fire here."

"Then I must repair my automobile. Two ways, as it would be so useful, and I do want to find the time to see if I can't straighten my ears with the adhesive tape."

"Honey Bear has gone bunting for wild berries. Jelly Bear said he was going to do some marketing; so I have plenty of time to work."

He had finished fixing the shop by sundown time and was planning the work he would do the next day on his automobile, and the day after that on his pointed ears, when it was time for bed. Everything around was dark now and very quiet.

Then he heard a terrified bleating, and cries of distress—and then all was very quiet again.

"I wonder what that could have been," Willy Nilly said to Rip, the Dog, who had awakened from his sleep.

"I've no idea," Rip answered. "I hear another sound now—different from the other—more like a squeal. It hasn't the frightful sound of the bleating."

There came a tap at the door. It was Jelly Bear. He was carrying a little pig in his arms.

"Why, Jelly Bear," exclaimed Willy Nilly. "Where did you find that pig?"

"I took it from the pig pen in the next village. Once in a great while I like the taste of pig."

"Now we'll get into trouble," moaned Willy Nilly.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 15 (AP).—The stock market threw off its reactionary tendencies today, and pushed ahead once more, at the expense of shorts who had sold in anticipation of a sharp reaction.

American Telephone was a leader, as shorts covered in advance of tomorrow's dividend meeting, and non-ferrous metals, sugars and miscellaneous industrials made substantial progress, with several advances of 1 to 4 points. Commodities were somewhat reactionary early, but wheat stiffened after a sag of about a cent, and cotton fully recovered a moderate early setback.

Issues up about 2 to 4 points included American Smelting, American Sugar, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, Union Pacific, National Distillers, and others. In the "west" group, Crown Cork was bid up more than 4. Issues up about 2 to 1 1/2 points or more included American Can, Great Western Sugar, Union Carbide, Case, I. S. Steel, Santa Fe, New York Central, Public Service of N. J., North American Dipping, and others. General Motors, Chrysler, and Radio rose fractions.

In trade reports, car loadings of individual carriers have been watched closely to see whether the complete report for last week would show an increase over the like period of last year. Indications are not yet conclusive, but the first few roads to report led to hopes that last year's level will be approximated. Wall Street has been inclined to regard a crossing of the trend line of the previous year as a sort of landmark on the way out of the depression.

Tower of London Group Dates Back to Year 1078

The Tower of London is a group of buildings once surrounded by a moat which was drained three-quarters of a century or more ago. Originally it was a single tower—what is now called the White Tower—which was built by William the Conqueror in 1078, says a writer in the Boston Globe.

The Romans may have had a fort on the site. There were two bastions in the time of Alfred the Great in the Ninth century.

The fortress for centuries contained the royal palace, the treasury and most of the public buildings. The old royal residence was torn down in the time of Cromwell. Charles II, who spent the night there before his coronation, was the last monarch to occupy the Tower of London.

The Thames runs on the south side of the Tower, and the entrance from this direction is the famous Traitors' Gate, where prisoners were brought in when they were tried for treason. Heads of traitors were once exhibited on this portal. To the west of the Tower is the Great Tower Hill, where prisoners used to be executed.

The peomen of the guard, who watch the Tower, are known as "Beefeaters." The word may have come originally from buffetier, or attendants at the king's buffets. There is a legend that they used to have to test all the food prepared that royalty might be protected against poison.

Insulation for Houses
"I know of no argument against house insulation," said a prominent heating engineer. "Today the matter is reduced almost to two questions: What kind, and how much?" Old houses are naturally more difficult to insulate than buildings under construction, but owners can go a long way toward making them cooler in summer and easier to heat in winter. Flashed or not, if it is undisturbed the attic becomes unobtainably hot in summer when the sun beats upon the roof. If the attic is to be used for living purposes, the roof must be insulated, if waste space or used merely for storage, it is cheaper and easier to insulate between or on the floor joists of the attic.

was held Saturday morning from the home of her niece, Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, 153 Hester street, and thence to St. Mary's Church where a requiem Mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Joseph Moore. The responses to the Mass were sung by the choir assisted by Thomas Dolan. Mr. Dolan sang as the offertory, "Ave Marie," and as the conclusion of the Mass he sang "Thy Will Be Done." As the body was borne from the church he sang "Jesus, Jesus Come to Me." There were many beautiful floral offerings. Interment was made in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where the Rev. W. H. Kennedy had charge of the services at the grave. The bearers were Thomas Feeney, Thomas Coffey, Joseph Corkery, Michael Mitchell, Frank Egan and Thomas Mitchell.

The funeral of Mrs. William H. Lake, who died at an early hour on Saturday last after a very brief illness, was held from the parlors of James V. Halloran, 44 Broadway, this morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 9:30 a High Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. William H. Kennedy. Monday evening a large delegation of the Holy Rosary Society, led by the president, Mrs. Frank Egan, visited the parlors and recited the Rosary. Members of the society also met at the church and acted as an honorary escort. The floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends, were many and beautiful. St. Mary's children's choir, augmented by the voice of Thomas Dolan, sang the responses during the Mass. At the offertory Mr. Dolan sang "O Salutaris" and at the conclusion of the Mass rendered "My God and Father, While I Stray," and as the body was borne from the church he sang "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me."

The Rev. Father Kennedy accompanied the cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery and pronounced the final absolution at the grave as the body was laid to rest in the family plot.

Blarney Castle

Blarney castle, a fine old imposing structure on the banks of the Conane, near Cork, is only the ghost of the building that once dominated the countryside for centuries. The original was built in 1177, but the present structure is what's left from a rebuilding in 1400. It is no longer used as a place of habitation, but it has been added to its picturesque and the place bristles with legends.

advanced and on Wednesday will

Baessler Takes Stand In His Own Defense

could not recall Mamie sitting on Quick's lap that day.
It was 5:30 when they left the restaurant and they took along a couple of bottles of liquor.
"Why two bottles?" asked Mr.
Lounsberry.
"Mike liked gin and Mamie liked apple," replied Baessler. "I like them all."

At Quick's the liquor was passed around and Quick took a drink. He never refused said Baessler. Quick got hard cider and Baessler said he had used it as a "chaser". Mamie drank ale.

On leaving the house Mamie rode in the rear seat but short distance out she changed to the front seat.
She always did according to the witness.
After visiting the hospital they returned to Kerhonkson after visiting Dr. Snyder's. At the restaurant he said, "as usual we had a drink".
They had several drinks and about 2 o'clock Quick came down after Mamie. She hid and Baessler told him that Mamie had stayed in Kingston but he would bring her home later that day. Quick he said was about "half loaded" then.

That afternoon they had more drinks and Quick came back later for Mamie. He ran his car into the steps on the outside of the house and came in. Mamie again hid. She told Baessler that she would not go back with Quick. Quick staggered when he walked. "She said he is too drunk to go home with and I'll stay here till morning," said the witness.
Baessler told Quick he would get her and bring her back next morning.

Returned Next Day
Mrs. Fish did stay and he took her home next morning. At Quick's, Quick said it was a good thing she had come back because if she had not come he would have someone else in her place. At that time he said he had seen some other girl the day before.

The next Baessler saw Quick or Mamie was on January 22 when he went to get her to go to the hospital again.
In November Baessler said he had taken Mike to Stamford but when Mrs. Baessler went to the hospital he went and got Mike again to help him in the restaurant. Mike came back on January 7, the day after Mrs.
Baessler went to the hospital.
Court then recessed until 2 o'clock.

Michael Conner was again placed on the stand when County Court opened this morning for continuation of the Quick murder trial. He was cross-examined at some length by District Attorney Murray in regard to differences between his previous statements and statements made while on the stand. He was particularly questioned as to his testimony that he was outside while the crime was being committed and as to Baessler's exact position when, according to Conner's testimony, he struck Quick with the blackjack. To the latter question he said that Baessler stood a little to the right, behind Quick. Asked by the district attorney if Baessler stood in that position and struck Quick right in the middle of the forehead, Conner replied that he struck him on the head somewhere. The witness repeated that he was afraid of what was going to happen when he told his first story.
Questioned by his attorney, Rogers Loughran, Conner again repeated his assertion that he was afraid of Baessler, both on the night of the murder and afterward. He added, "I am now."

Asked by LeRoy Lounsberry, attorney for Baessler, "Did you come clean after you had been told that Baessler had tried to get the blame on you?" he answered, "Yes."

Surrogate Kaufman Called

Baessler called as his first witness Surrogate George F. Kaufman, who produced the petition for letters of administration and bond filed in the estate of Ulrich Quick. Letters were issued February 14 to Zulette Quick of 21 Washington avenue, Kingston.
The estate was given as consisting of a farm of about 40 acres at Liebhardt, estimated value $3,000 and personal property of not to exceed $2,100.

Attorney Lounsberry next called Marjorie Culpick of Pataunkunk, where she has lived for 15 months.
She told of different occasions when she had met Quick and of January 15 particularly, when she testified, he came to her house in the afternoon and asked her to come and work for him, saying that he was not satisfied with Mary Fish, that she was going off all the time. The witness said that she refused to go after she "learned all the particulars."
The particulars were that the housekeeper would "have to act as his wife."

Cross-examination by the district attorney brought out the fact that the witness was married and has a husband living near Albany and that she lived for a time at the home of the late Orville Blackmar, who she said was her uncle.
There was a buzz of excitement through the crowded courtroom, when at 10:55 Attorney Lounsberry called to the stand Anton Baessler, one of the two defendants now under trial.

Tagging Major League Bases

By Otto Robertson
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the first round of the inter-league baseball season in full swing, the tagging of bases in the National League is being done in the same manner as in the American League, as expected, but contrary to the general prediction the western clubs of the American League actually had their own tagging of bases.

In the National League, the western clubs won 24 and tied one of the 41 games played on the Atlantic seaboard. The invasion of the west by the Yankees, Athletics and Red Sox in the American League, secured only 17 victories, however, as compared to 19 defeats.

The New York Giants was the only team in the eastern half of the Hayden circuit able to match the power of the Pirates, Reds, Cubs and Cardinals. They won seven and lost four while the Braves dropped nine out of seven and the Phillies were defeated six times in nine starts.

The Cards and Reds made the best showing of the western clubs, the former winning eight of their eleven contests and the latter accounting for six of their ten starts. The league leading Pirates and Cubs broke even in ten games each.

The Cleveland Indians compiled by far the best record, however, in climbing to top of the junior circuit. They won seven games and dropped only two as the White Sox broke even in eight contests, the Browns won four out of nine and the Tigers finished with the high score in three of their nine encounters.

Failure of the world champion Yankees was the biggest surprise of the inter-league battles. They failed to break even, winning only four of their nine games. Only the lowly Red Sox made a poorer showing, for they dropped the lot of eight. The Senators finished with six victories and five defeats and the Athletics with four triumphs as compared with three setbacks.

The Phillies in the National League and the Indians in the American led the advance into foreign territory in the only games played in both leagues yesterday and both lost.

The Pirates took the measure of the Phillies 5 to 4 to climb back into the National League leadership with a half-game advantage over the Indians while the Athletics trimmed the Indians 1 to 0 in a pitching duel between Merritt "Sugar" Cain and Willis Hudlin. Although defeated, the Indians retained a half-game advantage over the Yanks.

Freddy Lindstrom was the main factor in the Pirates triumph. His triple with the bases loaded in the second inning scored three runs and they were needed for the Phillies broke loose with a two-run rally in the ninth that Helms Maine managed to stop with the winning runs on base.

Hudlin lost a "heart breaker." He allowed the A's only four hits but the Mackmen bunched two of them, one a single by Cain, with a walk in the fifth inning to score the only run. Cain was touched for eight blows but he tightened with men on base.

Hardwaremen Meet Lumbermen Tonight

Without the services of Jack Robins, who was injured while sliding in a game at Red Hook Sunday, the Schryver Lumbermen will tackle the Herzog Hardwaremen in a City Baseball League game at the Athletic Field this evening at 8:20 sharp. The fans have seen little of the Lumbermen so far as they have played in only one contest and that was a four-inning affair. The Hardwaremen have been improving with every game.

Robins' injuries are expected to keep him from catching for at least a week and while he is on the injured list, Bob McGuire will take his place. Big Ed Wilson or Dewey Van Buren will do the pitching for the Lumbermen.

Ed Flemming is expected to take a turn on the hill for the Hardwaremen. He is a newcomer to the City League, but has done plenty of pitching for local teams. John Hotelling will be the receiver.

Charlie Bowie defeated Johnny Naccarato at the Koenig A. C. Monday in the city billiard tournament by the score of 160-59, turning in a high run of 26 in accomplishing the victory. Naccarato's best run was 9.

In the second of the doubles-header billiard matches, "Pie" Murphy in 31 innings, 100-79. High runs were Murphy 14, Krum 11.

Attempt To Get Extra Sleep During Tournament Harmful

This is the eleventh of a series in which Gene Sarazen, British and American open golf champion, tells the average player how to cut strokes off his score.

By GENE SARAZEN
World Champion Golfer
(As Told To Alan Gould)

Too much sleep is worse, in my opinion, than not enough, during a major golf championship.

My own experience is that seven hours of good healthy sleep is all I need to have the body and nerves in shape for the next day's grind, whether it is 18 or 36 holes.

Of course some players will require more than that, but the point I am making is that it is better to be tired enough to drop off quickly when you "hit the hay" than it is to go to bed arbitrarily with the idea of getting an extra hour or two of rest.

Diegel a Nervous Type
Take the case of my good friend and companion, Leo Diegel. He's a nervous type, anyway. He goes to bed too early, then wakes up before dawn, during a tournament, and starts smoking cigarettes to calm himself.

If he went to a show or played cards until he was naturally tired out, he would get better rest.

Leo also is apt to worry about little things. I recall one tournament where he took a particular dislike to a tree on one side of the fairway. "I wish they would cut that damn thing down," it's got my goat," he told me, but I told him to forget it and go to sleep.

But he talked about that tree in his sleep, and what do you think happened the next day at this hole? Why Leo took a full swing and hit that tree right in the middle.

Beating a "Goat" Hole
Speaking of "goat" holes, Willie Campbell, the old Scot professional, had about as good a recipe for them as any I have ever heard.

"If you come to one of those holes

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The Society of the Spiked Shoe is not, as you may have suspected at first glance, designed to make life more hazardous for second basemen handling the pter against oncoming base-runners, but an organization of New York men interested in the perpetuation of track and field traditions as well as the encouragement of athletes now in schools or colleges.

From the minutes of a recent meeting of the Columbia Chapter, some of the activities of the Society of the Spiked Shoe are revealed. The guest of honor was Harrison K. Bird, '96, who won his letter on the championship "Columbia bicycle team in the days when the high-wheelers were featured, the javelin and the discus unused, outside of Scandinavia and Greece.

"One of the Fall activities," says the report of the Society of the Spiked Shoe, "was the holding of a unique series of handicap Thanks giving Turkey runs. New handicaps were awarded at the end of each race, of which there were four, and the man with the lowest final score won a live turkey which was awarded at the last race, the day before Thanksgiving.

"This spring the society is working on a get-together of the Columbia and Rutgers chapters after their meet at Baker Field.

"The Cornell Chapter has been unusually busy... and five new members have been added, including the Alabama Poly Chapter, Chapters at Union College, Syracuse, Johns Hopkins and West Virginia also are flourishing.

"The National emblem has been changed somewhat this year to make it more distinctive. The Shoe with the University letter on its tongue is now embellished on one side with a laurel leaf, upon which in raised letters appear the national initials N. C. S. S."

Tarheel Tennisers
The Tarheelers of the University of North Carolina seem to be doing the same thing to the college tennis situation that Southern California has been doing to football. Glenn Cunningham to all mile-running rivals and Lou Gehrig to the opposing boxmen.

This may be subject to developments, upsets or later returns, but the Tarheel racquet-wielders, led by Wilmer Hines, a former national junior champion, started off impressively toward a goal of completing four straight seasons without defeat. They overcame Duke twice before starting a northern trip with a decisive victory over the Naval Academy.

One Loss In Four Years
In four previous seasons North Carolina's tennis record showed only one defeat, by Princeton in 1929, and a tie with Tulane, in 1930, as compared with 55 victories in meets with the leading colleges of the East and South.

Hines and Lenor Wright, No. 2 man in the singles, are Coach John Kenfield's best bets in the Tarheel lineup, but he has three other regulars from the 1932 forces and a trio of sophomore additions to the varsity outfit.

Duckpin League Opens Season At Colonials
The Grand Union and the Leaders meet at Colonial Alloys this evening in the opening match of the Rip Van Winkle Duckpin League, the schedule of which will run until July 20.

Roundest Turkey Legs
The week-end horseshoe pitching contest between the Rondout Twirlers and the Poughkeepsie Barons was won by the visiting team which came out ahead in 10 out of 16 games. In the lineup of the Barons was Harold Seaman of Hyde Park, state horseshoe pitching champion, who gave a fine exhibition.

Maroon Loses Track Meet to N. Y. M. A.

In the opening track meet of the season for Kingston High School at New York Military Academy Sunday afternoon, Ed Luby and Captain Ed Pelham carried the Maroon and White colors as they were exposed to. Luby turned a mile in 4:52 and Pelham took the 880 in 2:25. However, these and other places were not enough to offset the deficit, who won the meet, 62-42.

In the field events Holly Burham won the discus throw with a distance of 166 feet and eight inches. The Kingston boys that place are as follows:

100 Yard Dash—Van Valkenburgh, second; Hyatt, Kingston, third; Newman, N. Y. M. A. for third.

220 Yard Dash—Van Valkenburgh, second.

440 Yard Dash—Hummel, third.

880 Yard Dash—Won by Pelham, second, Watts.

Pole Vault—Goffred, third.

Shot Put—Marina, second; Ralke, third.

Discus—Won by Burham.

Javelin—Zachos, second.

High Jump—Burs, second.

Clarke of Kingston and Ward of N. Y. M. A. tied for third.

Two Track Meets
This week Kingston had two meets scheduled—one Wednesday afternoon at Poughkeepsie with the high school of the Bridge City, and one Saturday at Newburgh.

H. S. Faculty Tied Varsity Tennis Squad

Match Ends in 3-3 Tie—Varsity vs. Two Matches, Plays Poughkeepsie Wednesday and Newburgh Saturday.

Monday afternoon on Forest courts the Kingston High School faculty and the school tennis varsity battled in a match that ended in a 3-3 tie, leaving the question of the better team unanswered. The faculty took two single matches and a double.

This is the first competition the varsity has had in over a week and it is hoped by the varsity coach, Joe Block, that the boys will be set in their best place for the Poughkeepsie High and Newburgh Free Academy matches this week.

Of the four varsity men Macdonald and Clarke turned in the best work. Clarke won his single match from Fuller and Macdonald from Block. Clarke and Macdonald paired in the doubles and defeated Fuller and Block.

On the other hand Whiston and Culver won for the Faculty, collecting the only scores, which proved enough to tie. In the singles, Whiston defeated Wolven and Culver won from Morris. Whiston and Culver paired in the doubles and won from Wolven and Morris.

K. H. S. Seconds Have Two Games
To top off the full week of athletic events at the local high school the second team of the baseball squad has two games scheduled. The first will be played this evening at the Athletic Field against a group of high school boys who either did not make the squad or are ineligible. This same group of boys will play the Seconds again on Thursday evening.

The hardest lesson that age teaches is the knowledge that the time has come to look at the race, while others run it.

TRIANGLE CLUB PLANS ANOTHER VARIETY SHOW

On Tuesday evening, May 23, the Kingston Triangle Club will again present an All Star program at the Auditorium Theatre. Last Tuesday night the club presented a big 14 act variety show that won great attention and acclaim by those fortunate to attend.

On this next program will be featured several well known acts and presentations. So far the committee in charge has been able to arrange the following features, all donating their services for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. fund which the Triangle Club is trying to raise:

Robert Hawksley, well known, and popular singer, who has volunteered to render several of his most popular selections. Another feature that has made a great record for itself is the Clinton Avenue Minstrels which played to a full house a few weeks ago. Those who missed this fine show will now be able to gratify themselves at the second big Triangle Club Variety Show. A third great attraction will be Kingston's premier magician, Fred L. Van Deusen, who will entertain with his trunk full of tricks of legerdemain.

These are only a few of the features planned for this great entertainment at popular prices.

Black Vulture

A black vulture, indigenous to the tropics, was found dead at Sheffield, Mass. Insofar as records show, it was the third found in Massachusetts in the last century. The bird had a thirty-eight-inch wing spread.

Conner Admits That He Lied in Answering Previous Questions

Defendant Michael Conner, charged with Anton Baessler as murderer of Uriah Quick, said he lied because he feared Baessler.

Michael Conner, handy man about 125 Baessler restaurant at Kerhonkson, admitted on the witness stand Monday afternoon that he had lied about the crime at Uriah Quick's when he was first questioned. He said he lied because he had been told to do so by Anton Baessler. He said after the murder, which he maintained was committed by Baessler, and after the return to Kerhonkson Baessler called him into the cellar and there told him to tell if questioned that Quick had been alive and well when they left on January 22 and that Quick had shook hands with Conner and asked him to come again. He was also instructed by Baessler, he says, to say that they lied during the daylight.

Conner said he told Baessler that they could not tell that story because there could testify that they were on the road and stuck in the mud at Catbush hill after dark.

To this he said Baessler inquired, "Are you yellow?" and he said he replied that he was not and then Baessler said, "You do as I say." At that time he said Baessler had told him to say if questioned that Quick had been alive and well and that was why he had told the detective that story when first arrested and questioned.

Asked why he had remained outside on the porch the night of the murder when Quick and his alleged slugs and killed and for an hour or more, while the house was being cleaned up, Conner said he was afraid. He said he made no attempt to aid Quick or to go and summon help.

Asked of whom he was afraid, he said, "Well, that I don't like to say."

But, he said, as to who it was, he said, "Well, it was Baessler."

After an all day grilling Conner still maintained that it was Baessler who attacked Quick and killed him. There were some slight discrepancies in his story and in several points he admitted he had lied previously, but as to the main portions he stuck to his story as told on direct examination.

Conner denied he had ever been convicted of any crime and when District Attorney, reading from a paper, asked whether Conner had been in Carbondale in 1889 or had ever known one Edward Conway, he said no. That year he said he thought he was in Pittston. He denied that he had stolen a gold and silver watch from Edward Conway in January of 1889. He denied knowing Robert Benson but said he knew Bernard Gaffney of Carbondale. Gaffney, he said, was a brother-in-law.

Conner had previously denied that he ever owned or had a black-jack. Mr. Lounsbury produced a billiard and asked Conner to examine it. He looked it over and said it looked like one he had seen before. On being pressed he said that he had had such a billiard in his possession and had mailed it to someone on Wednesday following the murder. It had been at Josiah Buck's at Stamford on January 22 and he had on request of the owner sent it to him. At the time the billiard was given him he said he thought it was a present to him but the owner had demanded it back. He said the billiard had been given him about the time of the Pres Davis fire.

Asked about a burned cross mark on the billiard he said he did not know if the one he had had in his possession for a time bore that mark or not. He was asked whether he had not seen that billiard the night of the Davis fire and he said he had not or the following day.

Did Pres Davis give you that billiard or one like it? asked counsel.

"He did, he gave it to me in November, before I went to Stamford," replied Mr. Conner. He said he had mailed that billiard from Stamford on January 25.

When court opened Monday afternoon, LeRoy Lounsbury continued his cross examination of Conner. Conner said it had been before daylight on Tuesday when he and Baessler left Kerhonkson for Stamford. He said on the trip they had out of the car at the Stamford jewelry store that morning he took along a quart of gin.

Shown People's exhibit No. 34, the pots, pans, bloody table cloth, pillow, rug and dishes which were recovered from behind a stump near the Quick place Conner looked them over carefully and in a calm hesitating manner said that he did not know whether he had seen them before or not, he had seen articles of that kind. Asked about the table cloth as to whether he had seen it before he said, "I don't know as I have."

He denied seeing the articles in the Baessler car the night of January 22 or of having handed them out to Baessler when the car was stuck in the mud. He said he rode in the rear seat of the car and there was no such things in the car and he saw no carry them out and put them in the car.

Mr. Lounsbury showed him the black-jack which it is alleged was used to slug Quick.

Conner looked the Jack over. "Take it in your hands and look it over," said Mr. Lounsbury. Conner took the leather black-jack in his hand a moment and said, "Well I would not say I did. I seen one looked a lot like it." He said the Jack had never belonged to him. After that the wooden billiard was shown him and he admitted having had that in his possession.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray then took up his examination of Conner. Conner said the billiard looked like one he had mailed but did not identify it positively. Later Mr. Murray said that in all fairness to Conner he wanted to ask one question. This wooden billiard had been at Stamford on January 22 and Conner said it had. Mr. Murray said that there was no charge that this wooden billiard had been at Quick's. He asked Conner then if he had ever had any other billiard or had ever given one away. Conner said he never had.

Another billiard was then produced. It was a black leather one and was marked for identification. Mr. Conner looked it over and said he had also had this one. It had been left at Buck's house a year ago or over.

He said he had seen the leather black-jack in Baessler's restaurant many times. "I saw it the night of the crime, if this is the one. It looks like the same one, the same color," he replied, and said he had seen it in the possession of Baessler when he struck Quick.

He was then shown the two revolvers which had been offered in evidence before. He said he had seen them before or at least once which looked like them at the Baessler restaurant.

"When did you last see them?" asked Mr. Murray.

"A week before the crime was committed," replied Conner.

"I had hold of them, I think this one," said Conner picking out the smaller gun. "I loaded it, Mr. Baessler had the larger one," replied Conner.

Conner was examined as to his conversations with Detective Wagner. He admitted that he had not told the detective the truth. He said he told the detective he had but $34.45 in all when he arrived at Stamford. This was not true he had more. He said he had heard Mr. Baessler and Mrs. Fish talk on the way to Kingston on January 22 something about papers being signed over and Baessler had said "I'll give him a ride." He said he told the detective that on January 22 he went to Quick's with Mary Fish and Baessler instead of staying at the restaurant and being taken later up to Quick's.

It was untrue that he had gone with them. He said he remained at the restaurant.

All he saw brought out of Quick's that night was a pail of water which Baessler emptied on the grass and then went in with another pail of water. He saw Quick brought out. He said he was the first in the car and there were no pots and pans in the car.

When he went out after he saw Baessler strike Quick he said he went out in a hurry. "I was anxious to get away from there," he replied.

"But you did not leave that small stone porch after you got out did you, you never went for help and you remained there for some time," asked Mr. Murray.

Conner said he had remained there for an hour or two and saw Quick brought out and thrown down the steps and later he saw them cleaning up. The platform is a small stone doorstep four or five feet square. He said he remained on it all during the time. He denied he had been sent out there to watch for anyone coming.

He said he was instructed as to his story on the return to the restaurant and he stuck to it until he learned that Baessler had made a statement implicating him and then he changed his story and told the truth.

He said he had $38.45 in money when he arrived at Stamford but after computing money he spent and had given away to the Buck and Lyon family it developed he had $58.45. He said that was true and on the stand was the first he had ever told that. He had $31 when he left for Quick's. It had been in an old coat at the restaurant. Baessler gave him $20 next morning and $7 in Stamford on Tuesday. That was all the money he had he said.

"Then where did you get money you say you spent for drinks Monday morning. Conner thought a moment and said it had been given him by Baessler. Baessler gave him $5 and told him to go to Charlie Jocelyn's and get a drink and tell Jocelyn Baessler wanted to see him. He cautioned Conner not to spend all the money. Conner said he asked Baessler if he wanted him to change one of the bills and he went part way to Jocelyn's and then returned.

Conner said the reason he had not told anyone about the exact amount of money he had when he arrived at Stamford was because Baessler told him not to tell Mary Fish about it, so he never told anyone until yesterday on the stand. Asked how much money he had on January 7 when he came back from Stamford he said he had $1.35 or $1.45 cents and he could not recall Baessler giving him any money from that time until January 23 when he gave him the $20. Asked where he got the $31 from then he said he had saved it up, he did not say from what source.

He could not identify Mr. Quick's glasses but said they looked like glasses Quick had worn. He said he did not throw the glasses down the cellar steps.

When he gave Harriet Lyon and Josiah Buck money at Stamford he said he did not know what he was doing. He did not know he had given Harriet Lyon money until she had testified to it on the stand. He was told the day after he gave Buck the money of that event. He said he had been drinking when he arrived at Stamford and did not remember what he had been doing.

He said he could not recall telling Detective Wagner that when he saw Baessler strike Quick, Quick's face was covered with blood and "Quick dropped to the floor."

He said he had never gone back in the Quick house from the time he saw Baessler strike Quick.

On re-direct examination, he told Mr. Lounsbury that he had not gone back. When he went in the Quick house he took his overcoat and hat off and placed them on a chair in the kitchen. After he finished eating and Baessler and Mrs. Fish went out to get a Jack he had gone with Quick to the kitchen and his overcoat was still on the chair. He placed it up and put it on and sat down to smoke his pipe with Quick. He had the overcoat on when he ran outside and while he stood on the porch that evening.

Mr. Murray asked him whether he had his coat on while he sat three feet from the kitchen door and smoked with Quick and he said he did. At that time no one had said anything about going home. Baessler and Mrs. Fish were out to the garage.

Re-examined by Mr. Lounsbury. He asked Conner if his memory was as good on January 22 and on January 24 when he was at Stamford and he said it was. He said he could remember things as they happened on January 22 at Quick's. He said he had been drinking January 22. He said also that he had been drinking on January 24 when he arrived at Stamford. Then he said he had no recollection of giving the money to Mrs. Lyon or Mr. Buck.

He said he had nothing to do with Quick's death.

Court then recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.
